

Candida Royale, President of Femme Productions, who founded her company in 1984 to create woman-friendly erotic movies, is credited with pioneering the growing couples entertainment market.

She has since become a frequent guest speaker on issues of erotica, women's sexuality and free speech at professional conferences such as The Smithsonian Institute, The American Psychiatric Association, The World Congress on Sexology and The American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists (AASECT), of which she is a member, as well as universities such as Princeton, Wellesley and the University of Pennsylvania.

She is a founding board member of Feminists for Free Expression, a non-profit free-speech organization, and her most recent venture is the creation of her Natural Contours line of stylish and discreet personal vibrators. (NEW MOVIE/Adam & Eve)

You may have seen her on Politically Incorrect or Pure Oxygen, or read about her in Marie Claire or Time magazine. Well, now you get to hear her speak right here in Raleigh/Durham.

She says her favorite part is the Q & A, so don't be shy—be sure to have your questions ready.
