

30 January 2003

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NEW YORK Magazine

444 Madison Avenue

New York, NY 10022-6999

To the Editor:

Just in case anyone thought the ol' double standard had gone the way of the last so-called sexual revolution back in the '60's and '70's, the following statement by a young woman in your recent article, "The New Position on Casual Sex" (January 13, 2003) should put that idea to rest:

"Here I am having these tawdry internet affairs because I don't want to give men I might want to date the wrong idea by having sex with them, but I don't want to live without sex."

How pathetic.

Candida Royalle

President, Femme Productions

New York City